

"A lung cancer diagnosis is something you never quite leave behind, even if you regain your health. There's nothing like being able to interact with people who have been there, and giving support to new people facing this scary diagnosis. LUNGeivity is the best place I've found for doing both."

BUD BAKER

"I found hope at LUNGeivity when I couldn't find it anywhere else. I am a 10-year survivor, and I volunteer with LUNGeivity LifeLine to support others."

CINDY GONZALEZ

"LUNGeivity was my lifeline when my parents were diagnosed. LUNGeivity allows you to become connected with others facing the same situation you are —whether you are a patient, caregiver, or family member. The ability to get real advice from real people is priceless."

Peer-to-peer support from someone who's been there

LUNGeivity LifeLine

LUNgevity LifeLine is a free, personalized phone and email support service that matches a lung cancer patient or caregiver with a LifeLine Support Partner.

LifeLine Support Partners are volunteer lung cancer survivors or co-survivors (family members and caregivers) who have taken the lung cancer journey. These mentors offer encouragement, advice, and peer-to-peer support to those newly diagnosed and anyone needing additional support through a one-on-one personal connection.

LifeLine Support Partners can be a vital part of a newly diagnosed patient's support system and can help patients navigate the logistics and emotions of a lung cancer diagnosis. LifeLine matches are made by gender, age group, and similar diagnosis whenever possible.

If you have been affected by lung cancer and would like to be matched with a LUNgevity LifeLine Support Partner, please complete the attached mail-in card and send it to:
